

SUDAN COUNTRY BRIEF

THE STATE OF THE
HUMANITARIAN SYSTEM 2026

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The authors would like to thank our Sudan-based research colleague, Aymen Ali, for his critical role in supporting the design and implementation of the country research, facilitating access to respondents, and grounding the analysis in the realities of the Sudan response. We are also grateful to all key informants and research participants who generously shared their time and perspectives despite the challenging operating context. Finally, we thank the ALNAP team for commissioning this country brief and for their guidance and feedback throughout the research process.

Nurai Global is a specialist research, monitoring, and evaluation consultancy. With experience across Asia, Africa and the Middle East, we deliver credible insights that support better decisions in a timely manner. Our expertise spans displacement and migration, peacebuilding and social cohesion, livelihoods, climate resilience and disaster preparedness. Through our network of field-based experts across Asia, MENA and Sub-Saharan Africa, we ground our work in lived realities to produce insights that are actionable and useful.

ALNAP (Active Learning Network for Accountability and Performance) is a global humanitarian learning network made up of over 100 NGOs, UN agencies, Red Cross/Crescent Movements members, donors, funders, networks, academics and think tanks. It exists to help the sector learn and improve, by drawing on shared experience to understand what is working, where challenges remain, and what needs to change.

This country brief was produced as part of a series of country-level research outputs in Afghanistan, DRC, Myanmar, Palestine, Ukraine/Poland and Sudan for the 2026 State of the Humanitarian (SOHS) report 2026. While distinct from the global SOHS report, these outputs draw on the same country-level data, with a specific focus on national findings. They are intended to inform national and regional audiences and stakeholders, and to contribute to context-specific discussions on the humanitarian system.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Jana El Sakakini: research, monitoring, and evaluation specialist at Nurai Global working across humanitarian and development contexts in the MENA region, with a focus on generating mixed-methods evidence to strengthen accountability, learning, and response effectiveness in complex crises.

Shireen Issa: Managing Director at Nurai Global, with over 20 years of experience leading research and evaluation across Asia, Africa, and the Middle East to support more evidence-informed humanitarian and development programming.

Disclaimer: This report was wholly authored by our research partners. The contents, conclusions and recommendations contained herein reflect the opinion of the authors and their interpretation of the data collected in each country, not necessarily those of ALNAP.

ISBN: 978-1-913526-63-4

Suggested citation: Sakakini, J. and Issa, S. (2026). Sudan Country Brief. The State of the Humanitarian System Report. Nurai Global/ALNAP.

Cover image: © Xinhua/Shutterstock

© ALNAP/ODI Global 2026

Communications management: Molly Maple, Wairimu Wanjau (ALNAP)

Editorial: Jo Fottrell

Design: Alice Hale

Partnership coordinator: Linda Ahimbisibwe (ALNAP)

Report production coordination: Wairimu Wanjau & Linda Ahimbisibwe (ALNAP)

About ALNAP's State of the Humanitarian System report

Humanitarian action can be a lifeline to people experiencing the worst that conflict and disaster can inflict. For over a decade, ALNAP's State of the Humanitarian System report (SOHS) has provided a unique, evidence-based understanding of the system and how well it works for affected people. Based on a huge body of evidence including exclusive research with crisis-affected people and practitioners, SOHS addresses key questions about performance and effectiveness in areas such as hunger and mortality reduction, as well as giving a comprehensive picture of funding, resource flows, staffing and organisations. Consultations with people affected by crises were central to the research from the outset, and shaped the focus of the report.