
The Active Learning Network for Accountability and Performance in Humanitarian Action (ALNAP) is a global network for advancing humanitarian learning. Our goal is for all humanitarians to benefit from our sector's collective experience.

www.alnap.org

About the authors:

Alice Obrecht, Independent consultant
Sophia Swithern, Independent consultant

The authors thank the many interviewees who informed this paper, as well as peer reviewers from REACH, the Swedish International Development Agency (Sida) and the United Kingdom's Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO). Special thanks go to Professor Alex Voorhoeve and Professor Hugo Slim, whose work inspired many aspects of this paper's framework. The authors also thank members of the ALNAP secretariat for contributing to the production of this paper, including research management by Jennifer Doherty, communications support from Wairimu Wanjau and Molly Maple, and project management from Anna-Louise van de Merwe.

Suggested citation

Obrecht, A. and Swithern, S. (2025) Prioritising humanitarian resources: how to decide who receives what kind of support. ALNAP paper. London: ALNAP/ODI Global.

Cover image

Credit: Jonathan Ernst/World Bank

© ALNAP/ODI Global 2025

Communications management

Molly Maple
Wairimu Wanjau

Editorial

Jo Fottrell

Design

Alice Hale